
Do-Maru

ARMCHAIRS

Nipa Doshi and Jonathan Levien

Description

The small armchair Do-Maru is named after the ancient armour worn by samurai warriors, made up of painted and decorated thick leather plates that covered and protected the hero's body. Like the swivel armchair Almora, designed by Doshi-Levien in 2014, once again the shell of the seat is made up of a couple of superimposed bodies, softened by paddings that can be upholstered with either fabric or leather. The cast aluminium back support boldly underlines the conical profile of the small armchair, while the anterior support is in tubular metal with black chromed or pewter painted finishes, studied to match the colours of the body: white, black and tortora.

Technical information

Seat and back shell:

white, anthracite or tortora painted hard polyurethane

Seat and back upholstery:

Bayfit® (Bayer®) flexible cold shaped polyurethane foam

Front leg:

painted black chrome, pewter painted or black painted steel profiles

Rear leg:

painted black chrome, pewter painted or black painted die-cast aluminium

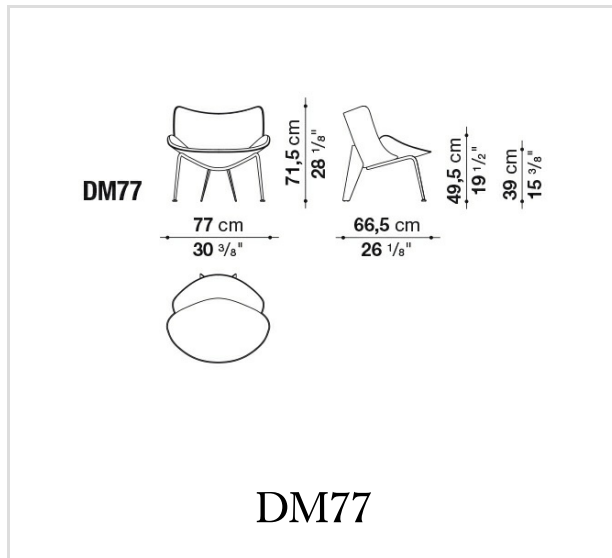

Ferrules:

plastic material

Cover:

fabric or leather

Technical drawings

B&B Italia reserves the right to make technological and aesthetic improvements to its models, including changes to the sizes and materials, without notice. The technical drawings do not define the details of the product. The measurements shown are indicative and may undergo changes. In particular, the dimensions relevant to the padded parts are subject to usage tolerances over time caused by the normal adjustment of the padding. For the specific information, please contact the dealer closest to you.